General Guidelines

We built NxtJob.ai Resume Builder with one purpose in mind -

To kill the resume writing industry once and for all.

For that, we've built an AI Resume Builder so powerful that it all but replaces humans in the resume building process. And why not? You've put in the years of experience that has built your career to its current status. Why should you need someone else to tell you how to put it on a piece of paper?

Sign up for an account here and upload your current resume. Leave the rest to us to help you build a resume that gets you your next job!

Disclaimer - This guide is built for professionals with at least 5 years of experience. Here are the general guidelines -

- The Resume is a sales document - You are selling yourself!
- There are only 2 metrics to measure a good resume - Relevance and Brilliance.
- Show your Relevance - Your resume needs to project you as a dream candidate for the job. So every job and every company has a different idea of a dream candidate. So does your resume change for every job? The answer is an unfortunate YES! P.S. By the end of this guide, you will realise it's not that hard to achieve this if you're clear about your career niche.
- Use the JD as a guide to decide what to put and what not to put on the resume for that job.
- Show Brilliance - There is a reason why IIT/IIM folks are so much in demand. Everybody wants to hire the bloody best. You have to showcase that you are in the top 10% of the workforce in the way you frame your experience.
- Frame all content in terms of impact you've created at previous organisations. (ChatGPT prompt included below to help you out)
- Never write a soft-skill directly on the resume. These are the vomit inducing language to avoid - excellent leader, great communicator, and all that jazz. Prove it, don't claim it. This guide will help you achieve this.
- The NxtJob Resume Score - is your best friend and guide along your journey. Aim for a NxtJob Resume Score above 90%.
- Kill the ATS - This is the tool in vogue that is rightly hated by job seekers. Not to worry, you have your counter-ATS weapon in the NxtJob Match Score. Check the ATS score and customise your resume to score above 70% before you apply.
- Resume Length and Grammar - Make sure your resume is less than 2-pages. There is no worse error than a grammatical mistake on your resume. Install the free version of Grammarly and make sure you do a spell and grammar check before you finalise your resume. P.S. The Grammarly extension works perfectly with the NxtJob software. The NxtJob.ai Resume Builder

- When you upload your resume to NxtJob, it's automatically converted into a format that's tested across multiple ATS to ensure that you're never rejected again.
- The AI Resume Guide kicks in that guides you through your resume optimisation process in the minimum possible time with "Fix Me" buttons at every step.

The screenshot shows the NxtJob.ai Resume Builder interface. On the left, there's a 'Resume Score' section with a yellow box indicating an 'Average Resume Text' score of 55%. Below this, a 'Let's Optimize' section lists various resume components with their respective scores: 'Over All Resume' (10/5), 'Work Experience' (19/15), 'Summary' (4/4), and 'Personal Details' (5/5). The main area displays a resume for 'Richik Sinha Roy', a Founder's Office | 2-time Entrepreneur | NUS Graduate | GTM Strategy and Growth. The resume includes contact information, a summary, skills, and work experience. The work experience section highlights his role as Co-founder and CEO at NxtJob.ai, detailing his achievements in market analysis, team growth, and funding.

- The powerful AI Rewrite option is trained on millions of job winning resumes, its much more powerful than ChatGPT and helps you frame your work experience into job winning resume statements.

This screenshot focuses on the 'Work Experience' section of the resume. It highlights the 'AI Rewrite' option, which is used to generate more compelling statements. The text shown is: 'Analyzed market trends to identify new sales opportunities', 'Leveraged market analysis to pinpoint and capitalize on new sales opportunities, resulting in a 15% increase in sales.', 'Led a team of 40 to achieve 350% growth in 3 quarters', and 'Negotiated a deal worth 15 Cr to build a job search feature.' The interface also shows a 'Rewrite' button and a 'Fix Me' button.

- The Job Matcher is your very own anti-ATS weapon to show you the keyword match for any job description. It also works on any webpage or job site in the world.

The screenshot shows the 'Job Matcher' section of the NxtJob.ai Resume Builder. It displays a 'Poor Match' alert with a score of 18%, indicating that the resume doesn't align well with the job. Below the alert, there's a table showing keyword matches between the resume and the job description (JD). The table has columns for 'KEYWORDS', 'RESUME', and 'JD'. The keywords listed are 'Lead Generation', 'Market Trends', and 'Project Management'. The 'Lead Generation' and 'Market Trends' keywords have a match score of 1 in both the resume and JD columns, while 'Project Management' has a score of 0 in the resume column and 1 in the JD column. A 'Generate Bullet Points' button is visible at the bottom.

What Sections to include and in what order?

Add only 5 cardinal sections of Resume and only in this order!

1. Personal Details
2. Summary
3. Skills
4. Professional Experience
5. Education and Certifications

Other Common Sections that are not required -

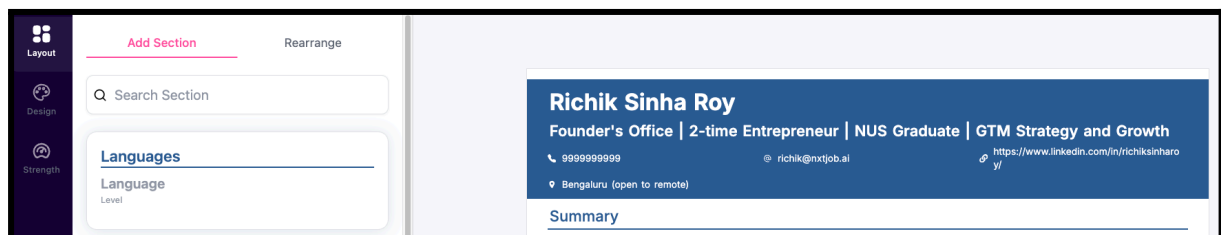

Projects - Make it a part of the experience section.

Achievements - Your entire resume is about accomplishments. Make sure they're the first few bullet points under every experience. Don't isolate them.

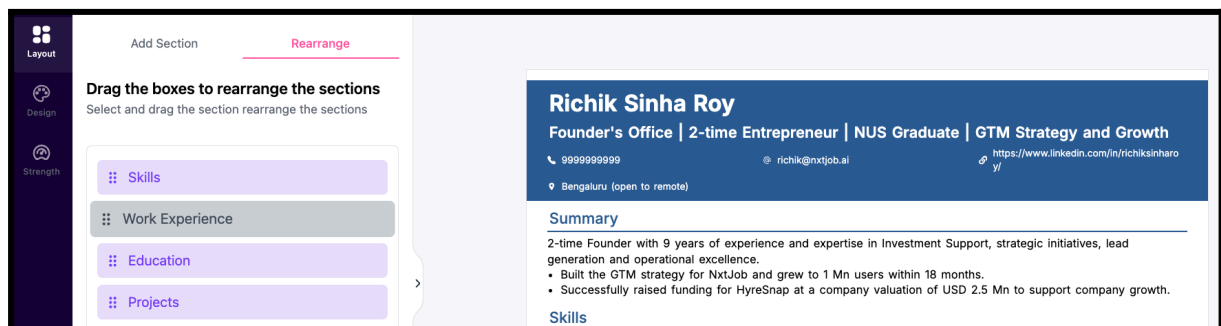

Certifications - Add them to Education and really good industry certifications go to your title.

Hobbies and Interests/Volunteer Work - Irrelevant from the work experience perspective

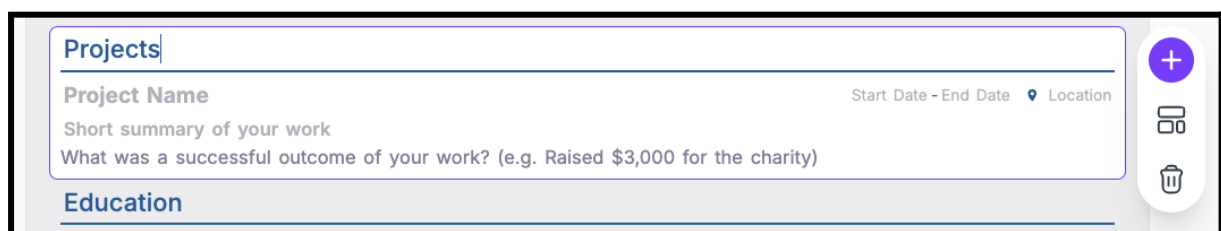

You can add new sections or remove irrelevant sections from your resume using the Layout option on NxtJob -

You can rearrange sections by clicking the Rearrange tab -

You can delete irrelevant sections using the Bin option that appears when you click any section -

The Personal Details Section

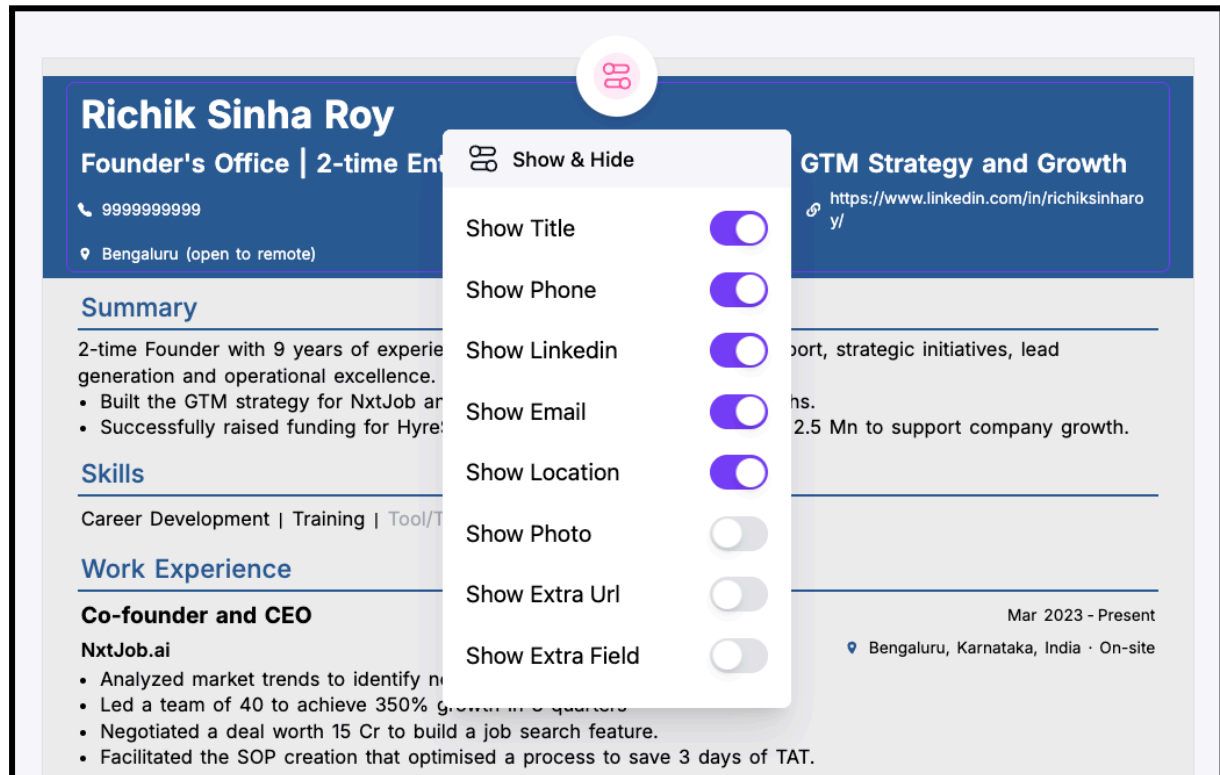

Do's

- Full Name, Email ID, Mobile and LinkedIn - Use a combo of name, initials and numbers only for a professional email
- Location - Only the City, not the full address.
 - Add (willing to relocate) if you're applying to a job in a city that's different to your current city.
 - Add (open to remote work) if you're applying to a remote role.
 - If you're trying to relocate outside India - add your favourable Visa Status and Foreign Language Proficiency
- Title - Job Title | Best bits of yourself (top MNCs you've worked in, In-demand Edu/Certs you have | Super-power Skills that are in-demand, etc)
- Credentials of actual work - Podcasts, Blogs, Website, Github - only if it adds value

Don'ts

- Age, Marital Status, Health Status (this isn't your Jeevansaathi profile)
- Declaration and References (most companies will get a BGV done on their own)
- Photo (unless you're applying to a job where appearance matters like acting, etc)

You can use the "Show and Hide" options on NxtJob to make the required changes.

Check the Personal Details section score on NxtJob to ensure that everything is in order!

The Summary Section

The Summary section acts the same way as a fish hook on a fishing rod. The recruiter gets stuck like a fish and is forced to read ahead (and call you for the interview of course). The way to achieve this is in 2 parts-

1. Relevance - show the recruiter you are exactly who they are looking for. Add the job title of the JD, include the required years of experience and add the key skills from the JD.
2. Brilliance - blow the recruiter away by showing your biggest, baddest achievements from your previous or current role.

Follow this formula - Accomplished {Job title} with {x years of experience} and expertise in {select 3-4 of the top skills from the JD}. Achieved {biggest, baddest, relevant achievement} for {company}.

Part 1 - Show the relevance of your profile -> Accomplished {Job title} with {x years of experience} and expertise in {select 3-4 of the top skills from the JD}

Example - Two-time Founder with 9 years of experience and expertise in investment support, strategic initiatives, lead generation and operational excellence.

The JD used for this Example Summary-

Job Title - Founder's Office, PedalStart

Role Overview: As a key member of the Founder's Office, you will work closely with the founders and leadership team to drive strategic initiatives, support investment activities, and manage relationships with key stakeholders. This role is ideal for someone entrepreneurial, detail-oriented, and passionate about the startup ecosystem.

Key Responsibilities:

Investment Support: Assist in the end-to-end investment process, including deal sourcing, due diligence, and portfolio management.

Relationship Management: Build strong relationships with investors, startups, and other key stakeholders.

Lead Generation: Develop and execute strategies to generate leads and identify new investment opportunities.

Strategic Initiatives: Collaborate with the founders on high-impact projects and initiatives that drive business growth.

Market Research: Conduct in-depth research on market trends, competitor analysis, and emerging opportunities in the startup ecosystem.

Operational Excellence: Support day-to-day operations, including project management, financial analysis, and reporting.

Communication: Prepare presentations, reports, and other materials for internal and external stakeholders.

Part 2 - Prove your expertise with the past -> Achieved {biggest, baddest, relevant achievement} for {company}.

If you're unsure about your own accomplishments, use this ChatGPT prompt to brainstorm examples of accomplishments based on your career niche and superimpose your actual experience to those examples that apply -

ChatGPT Prompt - "You are the world's best career coach. I am a {Job Title} with {x years of experience} in {Industry}. Can you tell me some real-world achievements that I can use for my job?"

Example - Built the GTM strategy for NxtJob and grew the company to 1 Mn users within 18 months.

Important Note - Make sure you add the company name for context. Lots of folks forget this!

Putting together the two parts for your perfect summary -

Two-time Founder with 9 years of experience and expertise in Investment Support, strategic initiatives, lead generation and operational excellence. Built the GTM strategy for NxtJob and grew the company to 1 Mn users within 18 months.

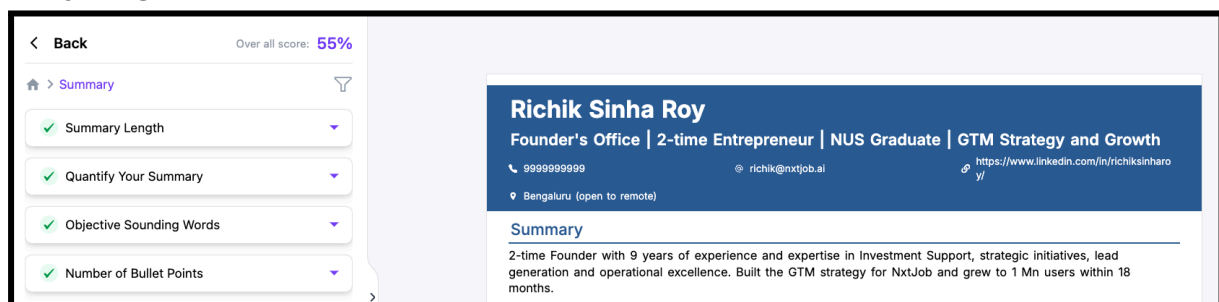

NOTE - If you're having more than 15 years of experience, you can write 2-3 accomplishments instead of 1 using bullet points. But don't overdo it, leave some content for the work experience section. Your summary cannot have more than 3-4 bullet points.

Example Summary with multiple bullet points -

Two-time Founder with 9 years of experience and expertise in investment support, strategic initiatives, lead generation and operational excellence.

- Built the GTM strategy for NxtJob and grew the company to 1 Mn users within 18 months.
- Successfully raised funding for HyreSnap at a company valuation of USD 2.5 Mn to support company growth.

Once you've done this, just check the Summary score on NxtJob to ensure that everything is in order.

A Note about Career Coaching

Hope you've been getting value so far. Before we get into the rest of the Resume Building exercise, here is a quick note about career coaching.

While hiring a resume writer is criminal, hiring a good career coach while switching jobs can be a magical move for you.

Hiring a resume writer can be misleading because it focuses on crafting a document that may not truly reflect your unique strengths and aspirations. It's a one-time fix that often misses the deeper strategic needs of your job search.

In contrast, a good career coach is like having a personal guide through the entire job transition process. They offer tailored advice, help you identify your true career goals, refine your personal brand, and develop a strategy that aligns with your ambitions.

- Personalized Career Strategy: A career coach helps you identify your career niche by exploring your skills, interests, and values, ensuring your job search aligns with your true passions and strengths.
- Goal Clarity and Alignment: They work with you to set clear career goals and create a tailored action plan, making sure every step of your job search is aligned with your long-term aspirations.
- Holistic Support: Unlike a resume writer, a career coach provides ongoing support, including interview preparation, networking strategies, and personal branding, for a well-rounded job search approach.
- Skill and Market Fit: They assist in assessing your current skill set against market demands, helping you position yourself effectively in your chosen niche and identify areas for growth or re-skilling.
- Strategic Networking: A career coach helps you build and leverage professional connections, which is crucial for accessing opportunities in your targeted niche and gaining industry insights.
- Confidence Building: Through personalised feedback and encouragement, a career coach boosts your confidence and presentation skills, essential for successfully navigating job interviews and negotiations.

In fact, this resume building exercise is a lot more meaningful when you have a clear career niche. The job titles you can target, the industry, the company size can make a big difference in building a resume that's already got all the skills the ATS is looking for. This means you need to spend very little time customising resumes for each job you're applying to.

At NxtJob, we've built a community of expert career coaches who can help you find your niche and build a resume that really works without tweaks for all JDs. And then take you through the job search and interview preparation to help you land a high paying job within 90 days. Find out more here!

The Skills Section

This section can make or break your resume. Whether the recruiter reads the Summary or not, they are definitely looking at this section to decide if you're the right fit for the role and if you have the required skills. You can also remove the ATS from the equation by including the must-have skills for your career niche. Let's find the skills using ChatGPT.

Use this ChatGPT prompt - "You are a recruitment expert. Give me a list of skills, competencies, tools/technologies and certifications required for a {Job Title} in the {Industry} Industry with X years of experience. Categorise these skills into 2 categories to make the skills section more readable."

You will notice a very interesting aspect about this prompt. Your skills are categorised which makes it easy to read like a helpful signboard on the highway rather than a keyword dump.

Pick the relevant skills and these to your Resume to build a nice categorised skill list.

Pro-tip - Always read 8-10 real JDs of global MNCs to validate the AI results. Any skills you aren't familiar with, these could be threats. Work towards learning and applying the skill.

A Horrendous Practice - A lot of smart-a resume builders allow you the option to rate your skills and add 5 stars against each skill. That is a terrible idea because you aren't an authority to rate your expertise levels. It usually makes you a laughing stock at interviews. The only exception - you are asked to rate yourself as a part of the application process.

Important Note - By no means is this your final skills section. Before you finalise the resume for a job, make sure that you do a job match and add any missing keywords to your resume. Your job match score must be at least 70%.

P.S. The NxtJob Chrome extension can show you the keyword match for a job on any site. It also highlights the missing keywords in red and the matching ones in green.

The screenshot displays the NxtJob Chrome extension interface. On the left, a sidebar shows job filters like 'Jobs', 'Date posted', 'Experience level', 'Company', 'Remote', 'Easy Apply', and 'All filters'. The main panel shows a LinkedIn job listing for 'Founders office - BD & GTM' at Zinance, Bengaluru, Karnataka, India (On-site). The job description includes responsibilities like providing support to all functions, working closely with the founder, and addressing and resolving issues. The 'Who You Are' section lists requirements like being part of a fast-scaling SaaS startup, having 1+ years of experience, and understanding of KPIs and growth metrics. The 'Skills' section lists various skills like product, written communication, competitive analysis, SaaS, knowledge, operations, software as a service (SaaS), problem solving, market research, teamwork, organizational skills, SaaS products, verbal communication, communication skills, sales, marketing, presentation preparation, fast-learning abilities, strategic planning, ownership, product coordination, B2B, SaaS, hiring, independence, multitasking, and SaaS marketing. On the right, the 'Job Tracker' sidebar shows a 15% match score for the user's resume and lists relevant skills like sales, marketing, and planning.

The Experience Section

This is the most important section of your resume. Once the Summary and the Skills section have done their job, the recruiter and your eventual boss will be going through this section to evaluate the depth of your knowledge and skills and then decide whether you deserve an interview call or not.

The key aspect here is to showcase your application of specific skills and the impact that you achieved for the organisation.

Understanding your Impact

Impact can be of two types -

1. Business Impact (saved money/time, earned revenue for the company, etc)
 2. Technical Impact (which means you did the job really well) - this depends on the specific role. Here are some examples-
- Project Manager - Standardised project workflows using advanced collaboration tools like Jira and Asana, ensuring 100% compliance with project timelines.
 - SEO Analyst - Developed and integrated an SEO tool for content analysis, improving keyword targeting accuracy and increasing click-through rates by 27%.
 - Sales Manager - Utilised CRM customization to automate sales reporting, improving data accuracy by 32%, reducing report generation time from hours to minutes.
 - Backend Developer - Built and deployed a microservices architecture to handle back-end processes, ensuring 99.9% uptime during traffic surges.
 - HRBP - Integrated an AI-powered talent management system that automates performance tracking, enhancing succession planning precision by 97%.
 - Finance Director - Automated complex financial reconciliations using an advanced ERP system, improving data integrity and reducing reconciliation errors by 95%.

A great technique to uncover the impact you've created for your organisation is to use the Before-After sales technique. (Remember, you are selling yourself!)

Do you remember the loud TV ads for Chinese products in the late 90s and early 2000s. A particularly funny one was a product called the Yoko Height Increaser - which was basically a shoe-sole with pointy tips to stimulate your feet (and apparently your height).

The script went like this - Earlier my height was just 5'7" and I was very under confident. No girl would talk to me and I'm unable to get married. But after using Yoko Height Increaser, I grew 4" and now I'm 5'11". Suddenly all the girls are noticing me and there are several replies on my Jeevansaathi profile. I am very happy, my life has completely changed. 😊

A powerful sales technique is to highlight the painful before-situation and the rosy after-effects of a product. Can you apply this to your work? When you joined your company, or you were assigned to a project, what were the painful parts? What was broken? What was everyone complaining about? And after you spent months fixing it, what were the things that your manager praised you for? What were the positives on your Performance Appraisal?

If we were to apply this technique to the technical impact statements we used earlier, these are the challenges (before-situation) that each professional likely encountered and solved before achieving the results (after-situation):

Project Manager (Standardised project workflows using Jira and Asana):

Challenges (Before):

- Inconsistent project management practices across teams, leading to missed deadlines and poor communication.
- Lack of visibility into project progress, causing misalignment between stakeholders and delays.
- Difficulty coordinating tasks across multiple departments, resulting in inefficiencies.

Result (After): Standardised project workflows using advanced collaboration tools like Jira and Asana, ensuring 100% compliance with project timelines.

SEO Analyst (Developed and integrated an SEO tool for content analysis):

Challenges (Before):

- Inefficient keyword research and targeting, leading to underperformance in organic search results.
- Inaccurate content analysis due to reliance on manual processes, resulting in poor optimization.
- Difficulty tracking competitors' strategies and adjusting campaigns accordingly.

Result (After): Developed a customised SEO tool to automate content analysis and keyword targeting, improving accuracy and optimising performance.

Sales Manager (Utilised CRM customization to automate sales reporting):

Challenges (Before):

- Manual reporting processes are prone to errors, resulting in inaccurate data.
- Sales team spending excessive time on report generation, reducing productivity and time spent on selling.
- Lack of a centralised system to capture and track sales metrics efficiently.

Result (After): Customised the CRM system to automate sales reporting, ensuring data accuracy and freeing up time for higher-value tasks.

Backend Developer (Built and deployed a microservices architecture):

Challenges (Before):

- Monolithic architecture struggles to handle high volumes of traffic, causing frequent downtime during peak usage.
- Difficulty scaling back-end processes, leading to system bottlenecks and poor user experience.
- Complex codebase, making updates and maintenance slow and error-prone.

Result (After): Migrated to a microservices architecture, improving scalability, reducing downtime, and ensuring reliable performance.

HRBP (Integrated an AI-powered talent management system):

Challenges (Before):

- Manual performance tracking was time-consuming and prone to bias, leading to inaccurate assessments.
- Inconsistent data on employee potential and readiness for succession planning, causing gaps in leadership development.
- Difficulty analysing performance trends and making data-driven talent decisions.

Result (After): Integrated AI-driven tools to automate performance tracking and succession planning, resulting in higher accuracy and streamlined HR processes.

Finance Director (Automated complex financial reconciliations using an ERP system):

Challenges (Before):

- Manual reconciliation processes were error-prone and time-intensive, leading to delays in closing books.
- Complex financial data was difficult to track in real-time, resulting in discrepancies and reporting delays.
- Lack of integration between financial systems, requiring frequent manual interventions.

Result (After): Automated the reconciliation process with an advanced ERP system, improving data integrity and ensuring real-time financial tracking.

Writing Bullet Points

Now that you've understood the theory behind showcasing impact through your bullet points, let's get down to putting together the resume bullet points.

Step 1 - Isolate the skill you want to showcase.

Example - Business Strategy Development

Step 2 - Use the Before-After technique to showcase impact.

Example - While building NxtJob, I realised that the company lacked a clear long-term strategic direction, with goals often being reactive rather than proactive. We moved towards a data driven business strategy by implementing a strategic framework (e.g., OKRs or SWOT analysis) for evaluating and prioritising new opportunities, improving decision-making consistency and focus. This resulted in us focusing on the service revenue model that grew by 67% to INR 80L per month in the second quarter.

Pro-tip - Your language need not be so polished. Just recollect how you used the skill. An important tip is to use numbers and metrics to show the before-after results.

Step 3 - Convert this paragraph into a crisp resume bullet point.

Do you need to be a writer par excellence to do this? Maybe in the past, but we're in the age of AI, ladies and gentlemen. We have trained the NxtJob on millions of job winning resumes to do this exceedingly well.

This is the power of NxtJob AI

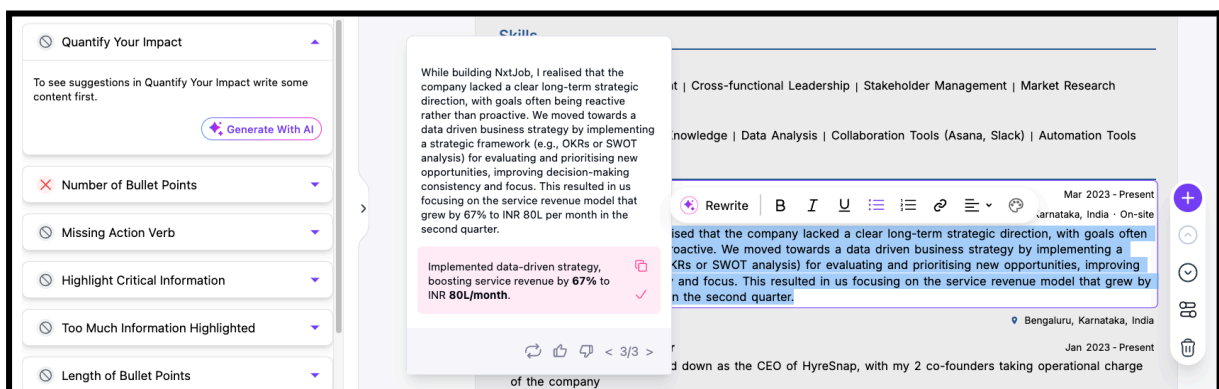

Before - While building NxtJob, I realised that the company lacked a clear long-term strategic direction, with goals often being reactive rather than proactive. We moved towards a data driven business strategy by implementing a strategic framework (e.g., OKRs or SWOT analysis) for evaluating and prioritising new opportunities, improving decision-making consistency and focus. This resulted in us focusing on the service revenue model that grew by 67% to INR 80L per month in the second quarter.

After - Implemented a strategic framework, boosting service revenue by 67% to INR 80L/month.

You can now tweak this resume bullet point manually to add in any missing keywords and voila, your resume optimisation is on steroids.

Final Bullet Point - Implemented a strategic business development OKR framework, boosting service revenue by 67% to INR 80L/month within a quarter.

Repeat Steps 1-3 for every skill and you have a powerful resume that showcases your depth and application of each skill in detail.

P.S. The software can even generate bullet points from scratch or for missing skills from the ATS score, which you can modify to show-case your experience.

Danger Alert - NxtJob AI is meant to help you minimise your work, not eliminate it. Do not abuse the AI to generate fictional bullet points and impact statements that you cannot defend in the interview. You will get caught and lack of integrity is frowned upon by every employer.

I have personally seen candidates with fantastic AI generated resumes who get ridiculed in the interview because they've no clue what they've written. Don't be one of these folks.

The Education Section

This section usually serves as a check-point to whether you have the necessary educational qualifications required for the role. Look out for specific requirements such as MBA or certain certifications in the JD and make sure you add them here.

This section is the easiest to build, but just avoid these mistakes-

- This section is always at the end. To highlight really important certs/degrees, use the title in the Personal Details section.
- Don't include your 12th and 10th marks. School time is over.
- Write your degree in full as well as the short-hand to accommodate for all ATS requirements. Example - Bachelor of Technology (B.Tech), Masters in Business Administration (MBA), etc
- Don't write your GPA (unless it's really worth showing off)
- Add those certifications that are in-demand in the industry. Six Sigma, SAP or PMP is great. Coursera or Udemy is terrible. Nobody cares about these.

Make sure you check the Resume Score for both the Work Experience and the Education section on NxtJob!

The screenshot shows the 'Work Experience' section in the NxtJob app. On the left, there is a checklist with 10 items, all of which have green checkmarks: 'Quantify Your Impact', 'Number of Bullet Points', 'Missing Action Verb', 'Highlight Critical Information', 'Too Much Information Highlighted', 'Length of Bullet Points', 'Avoid Inconsistent Punctuation', and 'Completeness'. Above the checklist, it says 'Over all score: 63%'. On the right, there is a list of work experience entries. The first entry is 'Co-founder and CEO' at 'NxtJob.ai' from 'Mar 2023 - Present' in 'Bengaluru, Karnataka, India'. The second entry is 'Co-founder and Equity Holder' at 'HyreSnap' from 'Jan 2023 - Present' in 'Bengaluru, Karnataka, India'. The third entry is 'Co-Founder and CEO' from 'Apr 2020 - Dec 2022'. The fourth entry is 'Army Officer' at 'Indian Army' from 'Apr 2016 - Present' in 'India'.

The NxtJob score for the Work Experience has several components to get green ticks on!

The screenshot shows the 'Education' section in the NxtJob app. On the left, there is a checklist with 2 items, both of which have green checkmarks: 'Section Position' and 'Completeness'. Above the checklist, it says 'Perfect! Having the Education section at the end of the resume is ideal, except for Freshers.' and 'Your education section is complete'. On the right, there is a list of education entries. The first entry is 'ICCC Foundation, Career Counselling' from '2019 - 2020'. The second entry is 'Bachelor's Degree in Technology (B. Tech), Computer Engineering' from '2007 - 2011' at 'National University of Singapore'.

It's quite easy to score all green ticks in the Education section.

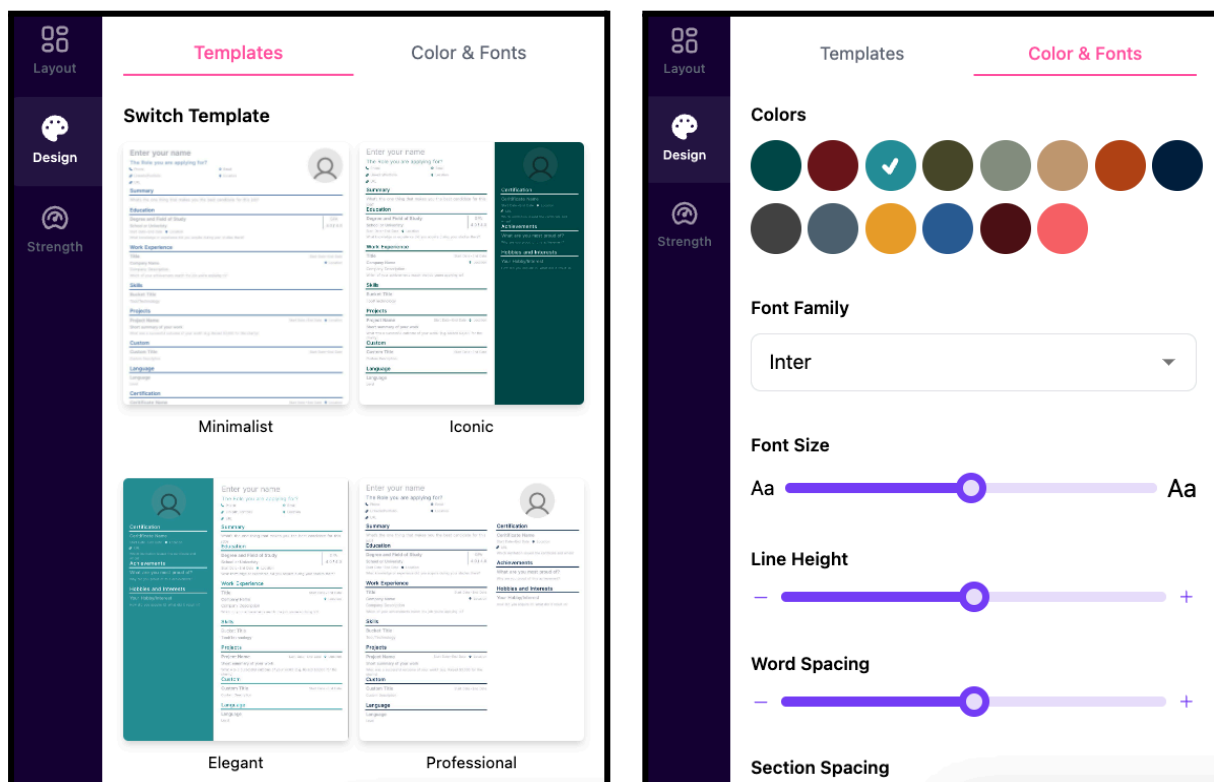

The Final Touches

Design and Colours

NxtJob comes with beautifully designed resume formats that are aesthetically pleasing without compromising the functionality and formal tone that a resume needs to carry.

Several resume builders in the market give colourful designs that aren't suited for a professional resume. Don't get swayed by them.

Select your favourite template and preset demure colours in the Design section.

Resume Length

Ideal resumes are between 450 and 850 characters in length. This is enough to fit into 1-2 pages.

If you have followed the instructions in this guide, you would have already achieved this. Here are a few more tips.

- Reduce the bullet points drastically for older work experience to just 1-2 and showcase only the business impact or awards you've won.
- Look for skills/bullet points that spill over to a new line by just a few words. Reduce them.

In the point above, "them" is the only word in the next line. So shorten it.

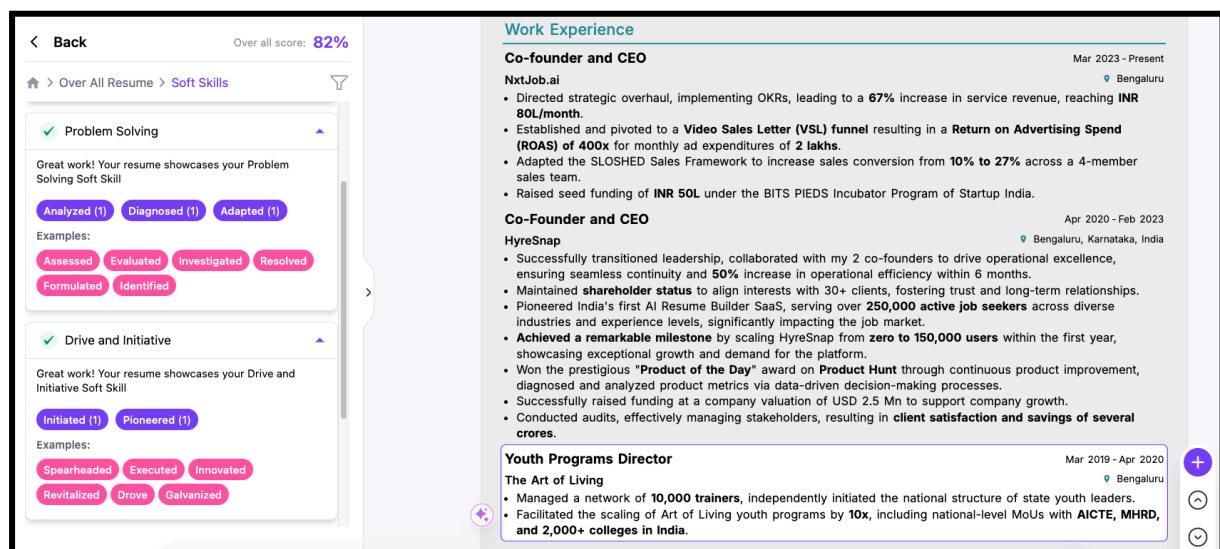

- Shorten the skills/bullet points that spill over to a new line by just a few words. 😊

Showing Soft Skills

While you cannot directly write soft-skills on your resume, you can show your soft skills through the bullet points in your work experience.

When you've led a team of 15 to achieve a 29% growth MoM, you obviously have leadership skills right?

This has been incorporated in NxtJob to guide you and help you show off those critical soft skills without using vomit inducing words like excellent communicator.

You can modify your bullet points and use the relevant action verbs that showcase your soft skills subtly. Once you get going on this, it will be an exhilarating exercise and you will love the results on your final resume. Also, while we're here, one final note -

Avoid buzzwords and cliches

Here is an example - proven ability to lead teams to excellence.

Resume writers detest these unproven claims (ironical right). Let your numbers and impact in your resume bullet points speak about your ability and proof of skills!

Once again, NxtJob will catch these phrases if any on your resume and penalise their usage.

That's it from us! Have a lot of fun building your interview-magnet resume on NxtJob.

Here is the final 1-page resume (you can download and check) built for the purpose of this exercise which you can use as a reference -
